Fire, Smoke, Odor

Fire can be the most devastating form of property loss. Clean up after fire ranges from complete removal of a structure to a simple cleaning of ducts and are all within the scope of what we do.

Smoke requires specific cleaning procedures to render a property safe and odors from fire typically include proteins that are difficult to remove. We have experienced all facets of these loss types and will work with the property owner as well as all involved parties through every step of these intricate processes.

Water, Mold

Both clean and contaminated water can create a multitude of problems in a structure. Whether a leaky faucet or hurricane, water can be insidious and result in serious damage if not managed swiftly. We analyze each case based on the type of water, size of loss, moisture levels and potential secondary damage, such as mold. Typically a property can be dried in 3 days.

On occasion, if a water issue goes unnoticed or is not resolved quickly mold can become a bigger problem. Mold requires 2 simple elements to grow: moisture and darkness. Standing water, especially in a basement, can create unsavory results. Mold clean up is another process that should be handled by professionals. Trust MDL to get the job done right...the first time.

Biohazard, Trauma, Crime Scene

The delicate nature of these losses require special training, certification and expert knowledge. This special MDL team works along side both government agencies for protocol and environmental agencies for procedure. Our staff also participates in sensitivity training as often these cases require special skills that go beyond those of a typical loss.

Contents Restoration and Storage

MDL has the capability of managing fire content restoration, repair and cleaning both on site and in our warehouse facility.

We understand that there can be a lot of confusion during mitigation and reconstruction in terms of contents and MDL will discuss all the options at the onset of each project with our clients.

Full Reconstruction Services

Upon completion of your emergency service and mitigation our expert construction team will help redesign and rebuild. We work with the property owner to meet their standards and vision as well as get them back in the property with as little interruption as possible. When it comes to reconstruction our results oriented team will do what it takes to bring the property to better than its original glory...and ensure that the property owner is completely satisfied.

MDL Restoration Inc. responds to calls within minutes and can be on site in 1-3 hours. Upon arrival we will assess the situation and act with accordance to our findings...often with urgency and immediacy.
